Subject: RE: MM report - review of precast panel load testing results

Sensitivity: Confidential

Hi [REDACTED],

We note that the tested panel measured deflections of up to 26mm will not reduce the composite action between precast and insitu deck in its permanent configuration ie the strength of the composite deck panel is not downgraded due to the panel deflection under the insitu deck pour.

Kind regards

As briefly discussed, find attached the current version of MM's report – subject line refers. This report has not yet been finalised, has not been formally provided, and has been transmitted to you both as 'confidential'. Please respect that status and do not circulate nor share with a wider audience at this juncture.

The reason for providing this report now is to draw your attention and elicit your reaction to the queries communicated by MM w.r.t deflection of the PCC panels and compliance with PWks design assumptions. You will find references to this within the Exec. Summary and Conclusions (within the report).

I have not redacted nor edited this version of the report as the context provided against test and method of assessment / analysis is relevant in informing your feedback.

You will be aware that CJV via NX2 via NZTA are to respond to a request presented under the OIA. Unfortunately time is limited, hence your reply by email to myself and [REDACTED] is requested before CoB today. That is not expected to be detailed and any information you provide in a return email, before a formal request is made (acknowledging that such a request may not be forthcoming), will not be sent further.

I trust the above and the attached are self explanatory however if there are queries please direct them to [REDACTED] and myself.

Cheers
