

s 9(2)(a)

Plate	Outcome	Investigation Notes
	Allowed	This was the customers legal name so its not offensive.
	Allowed	Not saying anything derogatory about other religions so not offensive
	Allowed	MR6A keyed - Plate no longer on a vehicle and is allowed to remain.
	Allowed	The plate is an insult in chinese slang however isnt classed as a swear word and has been deemend not offensve by the panel
	Allowed	Related to the old joke 'No F in Way' - not offensive
	Allowed	Complaint was more about the gun decal on the car than the plate
	Allowed	Plate can be read as the word Nazi
	Allowed	Sharia is a religious law forming part of theIslamic tradition. The word is not offensive.
	Allowed	Attached to a vehicle registered to Burger Fuel Ltd
	Allowed	88 is Chinese symbol for good luck
	Allowed	The vehicle is sign written as a plumbing vehicle
	Allowed	Unlikely to cause offence. This is a tongue in cheek comment and to consider it offensive requires quite the leap.
	Allowed	We don't have enough context to revoke the plates as the plates are not currently attached to a vehicle and we haven't been able to get hold of the owner listed in EBIZ to request the intended meaning of the plates. We should let the plates remain to be consistent with letting the other Aryan plates remain in circulation.
	Still under review	Nazih is customers first name
	Allowed	The owner has explained that this plate has a valid meaning. The complainant has jumped to a conclusion.
	Allowed	H stands for plate owners business and 8 represents good luck and prosperity in chinese culture.
	Allowed	Licensys have confirmed that plate was not manufactured with the surround.
	Allowed	Aryan is RP's surname
	Allowed	Kiwiplates declined the plate order due to sexual reference
	Allowed	Combination of plate owners and his wife's name.
	Allowed	Plate holders son's first name
	Still under review	Confusing
	Surrounding message revoked but the combination allowed
