

More signs, fewer crashes

Signs warning people about a corner can reduce crashes by up to

57%*

Signs and road markings warn people of risks further down the road like intersections, stop signs or tight corners. The right signs in the right places make a big difference in preventing crashes – signs warning people about a corner can reduce crashes by up to 57%.*

*Page 104, High-Risk Rural Roads Guide, published September 2011, NZ Transport Agency. First Edition.

nzta.govt.nz/safety