

Safer speeds save lives

When speeds are right
for the road, simple
mistakes don't need to end in tragedy.

There are a range of things we can do to make the road safer such as widening shoulders and putting in signs, safety barriers and rumble strips. But making sure the speed limit is right for the road is still one of the best ways to save lives on New Zealand roads.