AN INTEGRATED PLAN FOR GROWTH IN WARKWORTH

Auckland Transport and the NZ
Transport Agency are working together to address transport in Warkworth now and in the future.

Warkworth is set to become home to five times as many people over the next 30 years.

Upgrading the Hill Street intersection is an important part of wider transport plans being investigated that both respond to today's safety and congestion issues and plan ahead for future travel demands.

Over the next few years, the Matakana Link Road and Pūhoi to Warkworth motorway will ease some of the pressure at the Hill St intersection when they open.

However, with the additional population and future urban development expected in Warkworth over the next few decades, the Supporting Growth Programme is also considering other alternative connections, new investment in public transport, and improvements to walking and cycling, that will all help provide a wider range of travel choices in the long term for people to access their homes, schools, town centres and surrounding areas.

Our options for the Hill Street improvements are being developed in collaboration with these other projects, to ensure they work together in an integrated way. There may be a need to phase the improvements at Hill Street intersection to align with these projects, and when future development is completed.
